Lili Luo, researcher at San Jose State, is wrapping up the CSU Libraries Student Success Study and will report to COLD at the December 8, 2020 meeting. Jen has been working with Lili and library deans over the last two months to wrangle the last data submissions. Seventeen CSU Libraries were able to participate in the study. The committee will be reviewing the study results and areas for future analysis once the draft report is completed.

For the 2020-21 academic year, the committee will participate in the CSU Student Success Analytics Certificate Program, a cohort program run out of the Chancellor's Office. The first meeting of the cohort is December 9, 2020. The teams are typically selected at the campus level, and we are definitely the System's first cross-campus team in this program. Each team will select a project to work on together as we are guided through the program. This also helps to elevate the importance of student success to the CSU Libraries.
